

INVENTORY OF WORK BY PAUL HAYDEN KIRK

WHEN PAUL KIRK RETIRED, he took with him most of the architectural drawings his firm had produced between 1939 and 1965. These drawings were stored in an outbuilding on his Finn Hill property. A water leak in the mid-1980s damaged some drawings and motivated the archive's donation to the University of Washington. Regrettably, no client correspondence or other writings that might have revealed Kirk's design philosophy and process were retained.

An incomplete client list accompanied the drawings and served as the basis for the following inventory. Most jobs were numbered according to year and chronology. I've taken the liberty of adding zeroes for clarification, so job 501 is presented here as 5001, etc. Some job numbers are missing—most likely minor projects that never came to fruition, or perhaps jobs that were principally the work of James Chiarelli and retained by him. Other job numbers are duplicated for unknown reasons. Job numbers do not necessarily correlate to the order in which projects were ultimately designed and built.

The few addresses included in the client list were often the client's previous address, not the location of the new building Kirk designed for them. Locating Kirk designs involved searching drawings for identifiable features or street names; looking up client names in The Seattle Times online database, period phone books, and tax assessor records; and sending scores of letters to suspected Kirk buildings. Many designs could not be located, and some buildings could not be confirmed as Kirk designs. The author welcomes additional information and will update the inventory online as more buildings are located. The addresses included are for identification purposes only. Please respect the privacy and property rights of owners.

Most post-1965 drawings by Kirk, Wallace, McKinley & Associates were likely retained by the firm and its successor firms, The McKinley Architects and later McKinley Gordon. When this firm merged with Mahlum & Nordfors in 1993, these materials may have entered the Mahlum archives, but have yet to be located. Due to this lack of documentation, many post-1965 works have been grouped under the catchall heading of "Selected Late Work." —DK

Where possible, the condition of a property is noted as:

I: Intact A: Altered R: Replaced

Note on the January 2022 Inventory Update: Since the publication of Paul Hayden Kirk and the Rise of Northwest Modern, it has been a pleasure to receive emails from Kirk homeowners and fill in some blanks on the inventory of this prolific architect. This copy of the inventory confirms the address of the Miles house (5105 - replaced) on Bainbridge Island, and adds the location of the James Fox house (6514) in Richland, WA. I have also added several addresses of the Series 300 design (5318).
